Sailors Multihull Guide

By Kevin Jeffrey

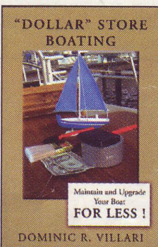

Now in its third printing, this is the quintessential guide to catamarans. It is filled with articles written by industry experts on a host of timely topics to help catamaran buyers make informed decisions. This book is a must for anyone contemplating a catamaran purchase. (Seaworthy $29.95)

Easing Sheets

By L. M. Lawson

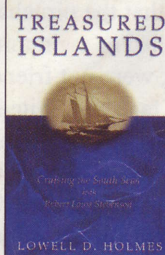

Here is an easy-to-read page turner by the author of Green Flash. A story of terror and intrigue at sea, a couple cruising along the coast of Mexico encounter three murderers fleeing the country and live through numerous attacks, only to prevail with the help of other cruisers. (Paradise Cay $14.95)

Dollar Store Boating

By Dominic Villari

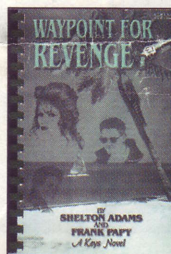

Tired of paying triple retail for stuff just because it says boat on it? Well, so is the author of this book, and he's doing something about it. This book gives some great money-saving ideas, from how to substitute less expensive items for yachtie stuff, to where better buys can be found. It can save you the cost of the book in just one or two pages. (Xlibris $19.95)

Treasured Islands

By Lowell Holmes

Here is a book that follows the travels of author and adventurer, Robert Louis Stevenson, through the Pacific. Holmes is an anthropologist, sailor, and a kindred spirit, and he does very well describing Stevenson's fascination and respect for the island cultures. Holmes sailed in Stevenson's wake, and you can almost feel the motion of the deck as you read this well written account. (Sheridan House $29.98)

Waypoint for Revenge

By Shelton Adams and Frank Papy

This book was started in the 80s by the authors as they sailed the Florida Keys. Shelton passed away from cancer in 2000, and Frank Papy completed it and published it in tribute to his memory. An easy to read and memorable story, told by sailors for sailors. Reminiscent of John D. McDonald's style. (Papy $12.95)

Florida's Big Bend

By Rick Rhodes

If you plan on cruising the 300 miles of coastline of the Gulf coast of Florida, this book is for you. Lots of good insight and photos of what you'll find and where. An easy to use reference guide. (Pelican $32.95)
